

acromioclavicular alignment is currently normal.

The scapula is unremarkable. There is no osteochondroma.
The underlying ribs appear normal.
The visualised lungs are clear.

COMMENT:

No specific pathology identified to account for the patient's symptoms.

Dr Andrew Carter

Electronically verified by: Dr Andrew Carter - 29/08/2024 16:06

Echocardiography now at available at PRP Warriewood.
Click here to view images