Clinical indication: Vaginismus.

The anteverted uterus was of normal shape and measured 77x42x33mm (vol 55.4cc) and contained a 4mm proliferative phase endometrium. No focal endometrial lesion was identified. The cervix appeared normal. The uterus was freely mobile and non tender. The pouch of Douglas was mobile.

The right ovary measured 32x16x20mm (vol 5.5cc) and contained 17 follicles of 2-7mm. The ovary was freely mobile and non tender.

The left ovary measured 36x23x14mm (vol 6cc) and contained 17 follicles of 2-10mm. The ovary was freely mobile and non tender.

A simple cyst measuring 7x7x6mm (vol 0.1cc) was visualised in the right adnexal region, the features consistent with a fimbrial cyst. No excess free fluid was present in the pelvis.

Conclusion

Following the patient's consent a successful transvaginal assessment was performed today. Normal size and shape anteverted uterus. Proliferative phase endometrium. Both ovaries have normal antral follicular count (4-24 follicles, Martins et al, UOG 2014). Right fimbrial cyst identified.
